The Seventh Annual Arcadia Baby Show was held at Eisenhower Park in Arcadia on Thursday, July 8, 1976. 125 babies from Arcadia entered the show and 250 parents, and other relatives were present. Babies were divided into three age divisions: 6 months to 1st birthday, 1 year and one day to 2nd birthday, and 2 years and one day to 3rd birthday. Convention sets scene for progress

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — Almost two thousand delegates, bolstered by another thousand visiting clubwomen, packed the meeting halls and auditorium of the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in this city when the General Federation's 85th Annual Convention was gavelled into order.

Enthusiastic delegations forfeited the enticements of the Bicentennial city and stayed in their seats throughout the lengthy sessions of a long, full week of business, interspersed with banquets and luncheons featuring some entertainment.

For the most part, delegates were busy taking notes and absorbing the full program of the new Administration with many speakers and lots and lots of materials to back up their presentations. The big concern of most delegates was how they were going to transport home all the pamphlets, booklets and materials they had collected.

An abundance of new projects and programs were tucked into numerous kits for delegates, and they had plentiful ideas to relay to their clubmembers back home.

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION of Mrs. Harry Wagner, Jr., made its appearance early in the week when, following reports by the outgoing Department and Division chairmen, the new appointees were called upon to outline their objectives, projects and programs for the conventioners.

This innovation delighted delegates who usually have to wait until September for such information. But Mrs. Carroll E. Miller, outgoing President, had invited Mrs. Wagner to present her new chairmen to the convention.

This opportunity for the incoming Administration to pre-plan and develop programs, as well as print Department and Division booklets, offered a springboard to the new Administration to get its work underway several months earlier than usual.

The machinery of the General Federation worked like a charm, the office of President-Elect proved the efficiency and practicability of that post, far superior to the structure which allowed only for a first vice president who was not empowered to begin any preliminary work for her Administration until after she had been installed.

State President Sets Goals for Coming Year

AZUSA—A membership campaign, scholarships for foster children and a course in practical living as a requirement for high school graduation are the goals of Mrs. Royal Wilke, new president of the California Federation of Women's Clubs (CFWC).

Mrs. Wilke, a member of the Azusa Women's Club, will spend her two-year term visiting clubs throughout the state to promote her programs.

Her first goal is to increase the membership of the 50,000-member, 732-club CFWC.

"We will conduct a two-year, all-out drive for new members and new clubs," she said. "Our goal will be 60,000 members by 1978."

"My second program, foster children, is important because today there are increasing numbers of children who must be relegated to foster homes. By the time these children reach age 18, they have been tossed from home to home. So it is my hope that the clubs will consider raising money for scholarships. We will be working through Friends of Foster Children, a nonprofit group of volunteers."

"The high school program came about because young people graduating from high school today have very little knowledge of everyday living, of the responsibilities of marriage and parenthood, of budgeting. Successful homemaking is almost a professional career, requiring education, mathematics, a working knowledge of nutrition, consumer concerns and family planning."

"Too often lack of the responsibilities of a home and parenthood and failure as a homemaker causes a young woman to seek a job outside her home. A career in business or political life is not for every woman so those who choose homemaking as a career should be taught and encouraged."

Mrs. Royal Wilke

"We should make a strong plea for high schools to include a course in practical living as a requisite for graduation. America must return to higher moral standards and a respect for ethical principles."

Mrs. Wilke has served the CFWC as president of the Azusa club and of the San Gabriel Valley district.

She and her husband, a retired attorney, have three children and 10 grandchildren.

Her theme for her term as president is, "Share Your Talents with Faith, Hope and Love."

"We all have talents and our club work in the community has need for every kind of talent," she said, "but it is how we use them that counts."

"We have made great strides in improving our communities and our nation, through our positive attitude. Let us maintain our faith in the continuance of our service, let us strengthen our hope for the future and let us increase our love for our fellow man."

Federation of Women's Clubs

Congratulations to all club and district leaders as you meet the challenge of your responsibilities. We look forward to a productive year.

In October, we brought seven seminars to our membership, covering the state, and it is our hope that much information and enthusiasm for the goals of our Federation came to you. It was good to see so many new members in attendance along with our members of longer service in Federation.

The State officers and chairmen have been busy preparing information and materials to bring to your clubs and districts. Do contact the state itinerant chairman with your requests, so that schedules may be arranged.

Thank you for your wonderfully favorable comments on the new CFWC Clubwoman. Special thanks go to all the chairmen who contributed such fine articles. As you have been told, you will be getting all information for Division work in the two publications, the GFWC Clubwoman News, and the CFWC Clubwoman. It is incumbent upon all club and district presidents to see that chairmen subscribe to both.

We are proud to announce that our newest publication is off the press, "The Jewel Box: A Collection of Gems." It is a book of poems and sayings. Every club will want to have one, and they make great gifts. Order yours soon ($2.50 each) from the Fresno office.

I wish for all of you a happy holiday season, Thanksgiving, Hanukkah, Christmas and New Year's Day.

Keep in mind the number one thrust for this administration, NEW CLUBS and NEW MEMBERS--"Each One Reach One"--as we Share Our Talents with Faith, Hope and Love.

Ways and Means

Hello from the Ways and Means chairman.

With the Xmas luncheon and mini bazaar behind us it is now time to think of things to come.

Thanks again to Alberta Genuit and Mozelle Russell for the delicious luncheon they prepared for us and donated. Wasn't that a generous thing for them to do. Are there more like them hiding in the bushes that I don't know about? COME ON OUT!

Mary Beth Fuerst is going to do the February 2nd luncheon. That is Reciprocity Day. Let us all support her.

The bazaar was a success, thanks to all the ladies who brought things to sell, and to all those who so generously bought. It's a two way street, whether you buy or sell - takes both.

A good time was had by all who came to the Xmas Party - good food, nice gifts, bridge and good fellowship. I am very sorry some of my plans for the day fell through but things do happen that no one can help.

January 28th, at 6:00 p.m., we are going to have a spaghetti dinner at the clubhouse. Madalyn Thompson and I plan a nice menu. Price $3.50 each. Plan on bringing your family, some friends and their friends. I will have the tickets at the January meeting.

We are way behind on our budget so please get behind this 100%. Madalyn and I will be the cooks but we will need help that evening and before, so HELP, HELP!! Help set tables, serve, clear tables, pour coffee, etc.

Happy New Year,
Alma Eichburg

Meet Famous Authors Woman's Club Program

ARCADIA -- "Meet the Authors" will be hosted by the Woman's Club of Arcadia, Literature Division, Wednesday, Feb. 9, at noon at the clubhouse, 324 S. First Ave. The program will feature three important authors: Milly Gordon, Gordon Gordon and Miv Schaaf.

The Gordons are a husband and wife team who parlayed an unpedigreed black cat into a fortune via Walt Disney who filmed "That Darn Cat."

They are authors of a new novel "Ordeal" as well as "Catnapped," "The Informant," "The Tumult and the Joy," "Power Play," a Readers Digest Book Club selection and others. Eight of their novels have sold to the movies.

The Gordons have been writing together for 40 years. In the beginning, Gordon was a factory worker, managing editor of the Tucson, Arizona, Daily Citizen, a roving correspondent for the Hearst newspapers and an FBI agent. Milly was a school teacher, UPI correspondent and editor of the Arizona magazine.

Their talent as writers is equaled by their wit and ability as commentators, according to Mrs. Harold Shepherd, chairman for the day.

Miv Schaaf has been writing a column called "Things" for the Los Angeles Times which also appears in the Home section of that newspaper on Sunday since 1972.

Her background is versatile, including advertising as well as music and journalism. She established Miv Schaaf Associates in 1954 to write, design and produce major promotional booklets, slide films and related material for corporations.

She is interested in photography, served as chairman for the Pasadena Cultural Heritage Committee, also chairmanned the Architectural Panel in Los Angeles. Miv will not only speak on the program, but will play and sing some original compositions.

"Meet the Authors" began 11 years ago under the auspices of Mrs. Bruce McAbery. This year's division chairman is Mrs. William Johnson.

Committee members assisting are Mmes. Helen Nicholson, decorations; Gene Lovegreen, hospitality; Carlton Eckermann, reservations; Robert Lane and Herman Bauerle, finances; James E. Brown, Ernest Nellor, Johnson and Harry Huford, table settings; Charles Ganther, author's table; L. Leroy Blodgett, guest book; William Milner and Johnson, door; Mrs. Henrietta Loeffler, Americanism chairman.

Others are Mmes. Jay Rhine, Earl Phelps, John Milam, Ted Becker, James Goodwin, Michael Erickson, Douglas Dick, C. G. Haidos, Dale Patterson, George Shepas, Lee Isakson and Nadine Tummons.

Mrs. B. Pierson Waite, president of the Women's Club urged that reservations be made early as the community response to this event is heavy.

Reservations for the luncheon and program, priced at $4, may be made with Mrs. Eckermann, 355-0240, or with Mrs. Shepherd, 358-6972.

The Gordons will sign autographs at the clubhouse after the program and will be at the Arcadia Public Library for that purpose later in the afternoon.

GORDONS DESERT CAT..... The wife-husband team of Milly and Gordon Gordon, whose novels about their cat ("That Darn Cat" and "Catnapped!") brought them a Disney movie, a fortune, and numerous awards, have temporarily deserted him. Their latest novel, "Ordeal", set in Arizona's Navajo country, tells the story of a girl flyer whose plane crashes into a canyon with a half million dollars aboard -- and the predators who race to find her and the money. "We didn't want to play Boswell to a cat for the rest of our lives," said Milly Gordon in explaining why they had given D.C. (Damn Cat) a vacation. The Gordons will speak to the literature division of the Arcadia Women's Club on Wednesday, Feb. 9.

Miv Schaaf, "Things" columnist for the Los Angeles Times, and Millie and Gordon Gordon, authors of "That Darn Cat," were the featured speakers at the recent "Meet the Authors" luncheon. The program is sponsored annually by the Woman's Club of Arcadia, Verdugo District, CFWC.

Miv Schaaf

Mrs. Schaaf began her presentation by asking who is going to define success: "your or someone else?"

If one allows others to define success, she said, it could mean a $30,000-a-year job, a big car, a big house, a good education or a prestigious position.

However, she said, if each individual defines success, then not boss, mother, boyfriend, husband, wife, friend, psychiatrist or doctor can "tell you what to do." If you use your own definition, it can change — you're not in a concrete box with your own.

Mrs. Schaaf wanted to be an advertising copy writer, so she did it; she wanted to be an advertising manager, so she did that; she wanted to work for an advertising agency; be advertising manager for a small store, then a chain of stores; and then she wanted to be a free-lance advertising copy writer, so she did all of those, also.

After all of these "successes," she decided that she wanted to do free-lance advertising design as well as copy writing. She went to school and learned all she could about design and, then told her next client that if she was going to do the copy, she was also going to do the design. Having sold that idea, she was again a "success."

Her next decision was to write a column for a newspaper and have it published. Many of her friends wanted to know why, because, "you're already so successful."

Now, Mrs. Schaaf has decided to work on publishing the songs she's been writing for a long time. So she sang some of them for the audience and accompanied herself on the guitar.

"I've been writing songs of age and rage," she said, offering selections which included themes about there never being a better time than now to do what one wants to do, about a mother-in-law being "in the way," about memories and photographs and about old people who never feel old.

Also she sang one of her compositions original benefactors. When Dillinger was a "guest of the sheriff" in Tucson, Ariz., Mr. Gordon was working for a newspaper there and got a call from New York saying that Dillinger could have $1,000 for an exclusive story.

Mr. Gordon went to the jail to deliver the message and Dillinger told him to take the money and write anything he wanted, so he did and the money allowed him to begin free-lancing.

"D.C.," the hero of "That Darn Cat," is 14 years old and still healthy but "he does need a girdle," according to Mr. Gordon, who explained that they had paid $2 for him when they got him from the SPCA as a kitten.

The Gordons also wrote "Catnapped," another novel inspired by their family pet, but, "We have written 16 books with out his help," Mr. Gordon said.

"D.C." gets lots of fan mail but the letters Mr. Gordon likes best are written by people under 12 "whose talents for critical analysis have not yet been influenced by the New York Times."

Millie Gordon

"I hate to write. I want out of this collaboration," said Mrs. Gordon, who claims she'd rather be an electrician, brick layer, or mechanic, anything but a writer.

Her career began when she started correcting Mr. Gordon's copy and imitating his style of writing when something had to be rewritten.

"Then Gordon nagged me. So, I wrote a book to prove I couldn't," she said, "and Doubleday double-crossed me. It got me 50 years at hard labor."

Mrs. Gordon claims that her husband locks her in a room with a typewriter every day at 9 a.m. and lets her out at noon to fix lunch. He then locks her back in at 1:30 p.m. and lets her out about 5 p.m. to prepare dinner. "If he never got hungry, I'd be in there 24 hours a day," she said.

The couple is not sure how their collaboration works out so well, according to Mrs. Gordon, all they know is that it does.

She outlined the process they go through to write a book: they choose the idea, plot the book, and then outline the characters before they begin writing, all of which means "we almost have to be able to crawl into each other's craniums," she said.

Eagle Scout puts motto to work by saving a life

"Be prepared" is the Boy Scout motto.

Paul Gaynor, 18, an Eagle Scout and a senior at Arcadia High School, was prepared and as a result saved the life of a woman who was choking on food.

It happened last week when Paul was invited to speak at the Fine Arts Festival for Verdugo District of the California Federation of Women's Club. His topic, appropriately, was "Responsibility of Citizenship."

The participants stayed for luncheon after the program. At the head table, Mrs. Fred White, district president, choked on a bit of food and stopped breathing.

There was considerable confusion until Paul realized what was happening. He ran up to the head table, meanwhile telling the women to call the paramedics.

He was able to dislodge the food particle by employing the method developed by Dr. Heimlich — the hug of life, in which the victim is clasped around the waist from behind and quick pressure is applied to his diaphragm, forcing the food up and out.

The paramedics took Mrs. White to the hospital, although she was breathing well by the time they arrived. She was released from the hospital and was home by 2:30 the same afternoon.

In a letter to Paul, Mrs. Robert H. Peterson, corresponding secretary for Verdugo District, said, "It was truly a blessing that you were there and knew what to do. You were at the right place at the right time."

Paul and his family had read about the Heimlich method in a magazine, had discussed it and had practiced it on each other. That practice paid off in a life saved.

Notes from Civic Day at the Woman's Club of Arcadia:

Jane Shepherd, program chairman, in making introductions, called us all "lovely and charming people." Whereupon Tom Clark, Planning Commission chairman, whispered, "I'm going back and tell them that at work."

Mayor Jack Saelid, who puts words together wonderfully well, made a brief talk on the history of the Woman's Club. Major Don Foley of the National Guard, when his turn came, commented, "The mayor sounds like a semi-retired itinerant disc jockey." He was almost right. Jack admits only to having been an engineer at a radio station, filling in once in a while on newscasts.

Leaders hail 'weekend warriors'

"We all see the armory on Huntington Drive but most of us don't know much about it," Jane Shepherd said in her introduction to the program at the annual Civic Day luncheon of the Arcadia Woman's Club.

Major Donald J. Foley proceeded to enlighten the audience about the history and functions of the California National Guard. Taking part were members of the Second Battalion, 144th Field Artillery, headquartered at the Huntington Drive facility.

The California National Guard, Foley said, is older than the state itself, and was organized originally to protect residents against Indians and bandits and to keep law and order in the mining camps.

In 1903 federal legislation provided support and today the federal government pays 94 per cent of the cost with the state picking up the rest of the tab. The primary purpose of the National Guard is to provide a backup reserve force in times of national emergency.

On the state level, however, the guard deals with a wide variety of emergencies in three categories: civil disorder, natural disaster and special missions.

Going back in history, Foley mentioned a jailbreak in San Joaquin County in 1876, protection of the Chinese population in Redlands in 1893; the San Francisco earthquake in 1906; Yolo County murders, 1913; Long Beach earthquake, 1932; evacuation of residents and control of looting following floods in 1950; the Watts, Isla Vista and Berkeley riots in 1965-69, and the 1970 fire storm.

Special missions have included traffic control and food supplies following the ammunition train explosion in Roseville, a search with metal detectors for buried weapons in Soledad Prison, disposition of "clandestine" devices such as unexploded bombs, transportation of nuclear control teams and search and rescue operations.

Under provisions of the state Military and Veterans Code, the governor can call on the National Guard in cases of rebellion or calamity or when requested to do so by the chief executive officer of a city or county.

Whatever the emergency, the "weekend warriors" of the National Guard can be called on for aid, Foley said.

Finale of the program was a parade of the seven flags which flew over California before the bear flag became the state symbol.

California always has been referred to in superlatives, Foley said, beginning with the early explorers who spoke of it in terms of the divine, the pioneers who underwent "incredible hardships to see and partake, and then the greatest migration of all following the discovery of gold at Sutter's mill."

As Foley described each flag a guardsmen marched into the room carrying it, beginning with the Spanish Empire flag of the early 16th century.

In 1579 the flag of England flew over California for 37 days. The Spanish national ensign was back between 1785 and 1822, and from 1812-41 the Russian flag flew over Ft. Ross where the Russian American Company did business. Capt. John A. Sutter bought out the company in 1841.

For 16 days in 1818 the flag of Buenos Aires, Argentina, flew over the presidio in Monterey, and then, along with Mexican rule came the Mexican flag from 1822 to 1846.

However the Fremont flag was popular with English-speaking settlers. With 26 stars for the 26 states and an eagle perched on a peak, it also flew from 1812 to 1846.

The familiar bear flag came into use in 1846 but it wasn't adopted as the official state flag until 1911.

Civic Day annually honors city and school officials. Members of the Woman's Club act as hostesses for each guest. Mayor Jack Saelid gave a short speech of appreciation and the club president, Mary Kay Waite, presented a plaque to Paul Gaynor, Arcadia High School senior who saved the life of a district official of the Federal Woman's Clubs.

The General Convention, will be held June 6th thru June 9th, in Seattle, Washington.

The annual Civic Day luncheon, and program was held Wednesday, May 4th, at the Woman's Club of Arcadia Verdugo District, CFWC Mrs. Harold Shepherd was chairman of the day.

President Mrs. B. Pierson Waite, welcomed the guests and members. Mrs. Harry Russell gave the Inspirational, and Mrs. Henrietta Loeffler led the group in the pledge of allegiance. After luncheon, Mrs. Shepherd introduced each of the guests who were city officials, heads of departments, city council members, and school officials. A club member served as hostess for each guest.

Mayor Saelid gave a short speech of appreciation, and mentioned that the Woman's Club evolved from a small organization of about fifteen women called the Co-operative Arcadians.

Mrs. Waite presented a plaque to Paul Gaynor, a senior student at Arcadia High School, and a speech contestant of the Arcadia Club at the Verdugo District, Fine Arts Festival on February 28, 1977. During the luncheon on that day Mrs. Fred White, Verdugo District President choked on some food. The paramedics were called, but Paul Gaynor knew what to do to relieve her. He applied this first aid, and had her breathing alright by the time the paramedics arrived.

The members of the Arcadia club are very proud that a young man from our High school, and a speech contestant from their club was so well prepared to help in this emergency.

Mrs. Shepherd introduced Major Donald J. Foley, of the California National Guard who told about the duties of the men in their organization. Before the Bear flag became the California state symbol seven other flags flew over the state, and a guardsman brought in each of these flags for display at the closing.

Mrs. Waite conducted a brief business meeting, and Mrs. Henrietta Loeffler agreed to be the Senior Trustee for the coming club year.

Installation will take place at the club house on Wednesday, June 1st, at 1 P.M. There will be a short business meeting, installation, followed by a Tea chairmaned by Mrs. Walter Genuit.

Arcadia Juniors Urge All Arcadians To Display Flags

ARCADIA — Members of the Arcadia Junior Woman's Club encourage all citizens to display their American flags on Flag Day, Tuesday, June 14.

What is Flag Day? On June 14, 1919, President Wilson proclaimed the original birthday of our flag as national Flag Day.

The first flag in 1777 consisted of 13 stars and stripes, one for each colony. The 13 original stars have grown to 50 and stand for the union of 50 states held together by the bond of one national government.

A new star was added for each new state on July 4 following its admission to the union. The 13 stripes preserved the traditions and ideals of the 13 colonies. The red stripes stand for hardiness and courage, the white is a symbol of purity and innocence, blue is for vigilance, perseverance and justice.

Before displaying the American flag, you should know the following facts:

—When flown with other flags on the same staff, it is the highest.

—When flown with other nations in a row, it is at the same height as the others.

—The flag is displayed to the right of a speaker.

—When the flag is hung with the union down, it is a distress signal.

—A flag at half mast is raised to the peak and then lowered to a half-way point.

—The flag should never touch the ground and should not be flown on days of inclement weather.

—The flag should be kept clean by dry cleaning. Old flags may be given to the American Legion, but it should never carelessly be thrown out in the trash.

—In a parade, the American flag is in the center front or at the right of the other flags in a line.

Arcadia Juniors urge all Arcadians to fly their flag on Flag Day and every national holiday.
